UofL Family,

Yesterday we briefed the Board of Trustees on the budget for the 2020-21 fiscal year and on our planning committees' recommendations in preparation for the Fall semester.

Although some media have reported on the board presentation, I want to emphasize that these are merely draft recommendations. I have shared the draft with the committees that have developed the plans and am giving them the weekend to review them. After incorporating their feedback, we will share a draft with the campus community on Monday and ask for your feedback by Friday, June 5.

We then will tweak the plans and send the final version to you before releasing to the public.

The COVID-19 pandemic has posed many challenges for our UofL community. In many ways, it also has brought out our best, as faculty, staff, students and friends have worked together to develop these plans. Thank you for your patience, your support and your feedback as we continue to work through this unprecedented situation.

Best,

Beth A. Boehm

Executive Vice President and University Provost
